Religious Beneations.

Lest the caption to this article should convey a wrong impression to the minds of those who read it, we would observe that it mut intended to convey the idea that it mut in the idea that it mut intended to convey the idea that it mut in that some particular branch of the Christain Church has been recently visited with a special spiritual blessing, but the special spiritual blessing the sp to cell attention to certain occurrences Country one in England and another in Ireland-in which the English Church in as former and the Irish Church in the latter are deculy interested, and both of which have provoked wide-spread dissaion through the medium of the public press, and given rise to feelings of religious discord and sectarian bitterness such as has not been witnessed in the British farance for generations past. Every one knows that in the Established Church relevies who believe in high retualistic Church of Rome in its relations to the practices in the conduct of public worship, and that other class who ignore ritualism and that other class who ignore ritualism In every form, as being inconsistent with the tenets and teachings of the Estab-lished Church, as prescribed by her canons and the laws of the country. Repeatedly have the eccentricities and innovations of the ritualists been made the object of legal investigation before the having jurisdiction in ecclesiastical affairs, sometimes with varying but al ways with doubtful results; and the consequence has been that every effort to relieve the Church from the imputation of heresy has only tended to make matters and to lored in a bind of doubt worse and to involve in a kind of doubt and mystery what the creed, doctrines and faith of the Established Church really is, or whether she is at all possessed of any fixed doctrinal principles. In many of the Established Churches of England one innovation has followed another in such rapid succession that it is said now to be almost impossible to detect any perceptible d fference between the decorations and mode of worship in those Churches, under the state patronage of England, and those that are partial and avewedly Roman Catholic. Crucifixes, altar-lights, burning of incense, bowing, and other matters nereto-fore peculiar to the Catholic Church, are now quite as common in many English Churches as in the Church of Rome, The latest innovation, and the one which at the present moment is exciting unusual interest in ecclesiastical and reons circles in England, is that which of Christ in the Eucher stic sacrament. in Somerset, has recently published several books and sermous in which he church as to be of decidedly Romanist tendency. The Judicial Committee of Privy Council took the matter into con-sideration, and have just decided that it is lawful for a clergyman to teach that "the body and blood of Christ is actual-ly present in the consecrated bread and mine, by rirtue of and in consequence of the consecration, irrespective of the faith and worthiness of the communicant, and separately from the act of reception by the communicant;" that "the communion table is an altar of sacrifice," and that tion is due to Christ present upon the alters of the churches, in the sacrament, under the form of bread and wine."

This the Evangelical party in the Established Church denounce as rank Romanism, and the consequence is a pretty theological row and a state of office. ogical row and a state of affairs Thick is soything but creditable to the Hoglish Establishment. Alluding to this applied the Loadon Times says: "It is now established that a clergyman of the Church of England may teach any doc trine within limits which only extreme catholicism on the one side, from Calvin-ism on another side, and from Deism on a third." The Manchester Examiner, commenting on this judgment, says:
"They (the Sacredotalists) have won a great victory, and they will not rest until it is complete. Meanwhile, one or two questions arise upon which it is the right agmen to say something. They are itled to ask-What is the religion of the Church of England? What are the ctrines which are to be taught at the cost of the nation? At present the Church of England is the embodiment of three religions. It teaches one re-igion which can hardly be distinguished from Deien, another which is almost identical with Romanism, and another which may be defined as a sort of Calvin-ted Methodism. The latest decision recognizes the pretensions of the priest-bood in their broadest shape, and leaves ree scope for the dissem erdotalism through the length and breadth of the land. It is a question that has a direct bearing upon politics, for no human institutions can for no human institutions can theoretically hold their own against the pomessors of supernatural power. It their pretensions are true, they have a right to be our masters, and should the time come when they are generally be-lieved to be true, we may give up dis cussing politics—the priests, as the only men who hold communication with hea-ven, will settle them for us." This brings us briefly to notice another sensabrings us briefly to notice another sensa-tion which has been created in the Irish Cherch, (Roman Catholic), by the judg-ment recently given by Mr. Justice Keogh in the Galway election case, in which a Capt. Trench contested the return of Capt. Nolan, the sitting member for that county, a prominent Roman Catholic gestleman, on the ground that he had obtained his seat in consequence of undue the electors, and for that reason claimed that he was entitled to the seat which that he was entitled to the seat which Capt. Notan occupied. The hearing of the case occupied fifty days, and a great deal of interest was felt by all parties in the result of the trial. In giving judgment the learned judge said "he had exmined the whole of the evidence in the defeat the free franchise of the electors Such a sweeping condemnation of the hierarchy and priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church, from the lips of a Roman Catholic Judge, fell like a thunderbolt upon the ears of more than one who heard it, and tas aroused a feeling of fierce indignation in Romanist circles throughout the length and breadth of Ire-land. We make reference to these matters simply as interesting current topics, having in a measure some political significance. Directly, we have no interest in either one case or the other, but indirectly whatever affects the Church of England exercise of political rights in any part of the British dominions, cannot be looked upon with indifference even in British Col-

A serolat) FRIDAY, August 2nd, 1872, The two Chinamen arrested at Switzer's. ont, charged with being concerned in the robbery at the London House, on 17th December last, were up again to-day, when count of the circumstances connected with Chinese coats produced in Court, as being similar with that stolen from his premises.

Officer Rappitt gave evidence to the effect that from information received, he with officer Ward went to Belmont about nine days age taking with them Ah Toy, who is in jail charged with misprision of felony, and who nted out the men to the police, when they were taken into custody. The police went to Ah Yes's hed and found one of the coats mentioned above, which the prisoner put on him. The police went a little further, and in the bush they found the other two coats also mentioned, and took them with the prisoners; the prisoners did not say whether the coats belonged to them or not.

Inspector Bowden gave evidence that one of the prisoners, at the time of the robbery, was employed in Lush's Ten Pin Alley, setled into the passenge way from Fort street, and the door was within a few yards of Mr. Terser's back premises where the robbery

This impediment, however, the people have the power to remove by encouraging competition.

THEATRE. The first of the new series of entertainments given by those talented artistes, Mile Gaugain, Vivian and Nesfield, took place last evening. The performance was capital and the two bours and a half that it occupied seemed to fly very rapidly. The first part of the performance was an overture and song from Mr. Nesfield, both of which were received with much appiause.

Mile. Gaugain then performed the Hungarian dance, and the enthusiasm of the audience was immense. Vivian next took the stage and sang several new comic songs, among which were "Good Evening," "Peter Piper" and "The Tern of the Tide." Part the second was as good, if not better than the first, and concluded with Vivian in his celebrated character of the "Biooming Pal."

Green, at the York-ville Police Court, yesterday, of having stolen a quantity of his wife's clothing and his child, three or four months old. The clothes she pawned and the child she endeavored to sell to a woman in East Forty-eighth street, but failing to agree about the price she left the child to the woman for nothing. She was drunk at the time on whiskey obtained at the pawn shop for the pledged clothing. She was therefore unable to clothing. She was therefore unable to tell the distracted parents of the child's whereabouts until it was found by officer James Quigley, who received the information by pure accident. Mary denied having endeavored to sell the child, but Alderman Pluckitt held ber for trial.

OUR VOLUNTEERS-A writer from the United States has visited Windsor camp. Describing camp life he says:—" Most of the battalions have picked up wonderfully in the mat-ter of drill' and the various evolutions are now gone through in a way to reflect credit on officers and men. The desire to shirk drill, and persue novels on the north side of the tent, or under a shady tree is not so much indulged in as last week. Theperiod of drill is extended a little every day, as the men can bear it, and before the encampment closes the men will have had a taste of "drill-pie" which Uncle Sam used to doge out to recruits massed along the Potomac. The morals of the men has been good from the start, all assertions to the contrary notwithstanding. There has been but very little drunkenness since the first day, when the men were at liberty to do almost as they pleased, and disobedience of orbers has been a rare thing."

Upon this subject the New York Hereld of late date furnishes the following:

the Tanganyika, according to Burton, is only one thousand eight hundred and forty-four feet above the sea level. But south of Tan-ganyika is the Chambezi river of Livingstone, which he is sure is not the Zambesi, flowing into the Indian Ocean, but which, he thinks, is the source of the Nile. This Chambesi, then, must flow around the west side of Tanganyika into the Albert Lake of the Nile, and, as Tanganyika is fresh water, and must, therefore, have an outlet, and as the rivers therefore, have an outlet, and as the rivers flow into it on the east side and south end, its in their basins. The whole question depends upon Berton's measurement, right or wrong, of the altitude of Lake Tanganyika, and Burton, as a rule, is very careful in his observations.

This, then is the Nile mystery which remains to be solved, and Livingstone remains at Lake Tanganyikate solveit. And here it occurred to the that with a light heat added for to us that with a light boat adapted for sailing or rowing, first coasting on the west side for the outlet of his lake, and then follow-ing the stream, which much be a large one ing the stream, which much be a large one he can, within a month, settle the question which otherwise, in trudging about among those savage tribes on foot he may never accomplish. Meantime, it is probable that Sir Samuel Baker, withhis ample equipments will solve this problem. If so we trust that the chief of our Nila available. chief of our Nile expedition will come out with him to share in the honors of his great
